

After the Arrangement?

If you're reading this information, then you're more than likely making a myriad of difficult decisions. Fortunately, you are surrounded by caring funeral professionals who take great pride in helping you navigate such a complicated, unfamiliar, and overwhelming process.

You see, once the service has ended, you'll be faced with a whole new set of challenges and frustrations. That's because, following the passing of a family member, someone is legally accountable to make notifications, applications, and inform various organizations regarding the death.

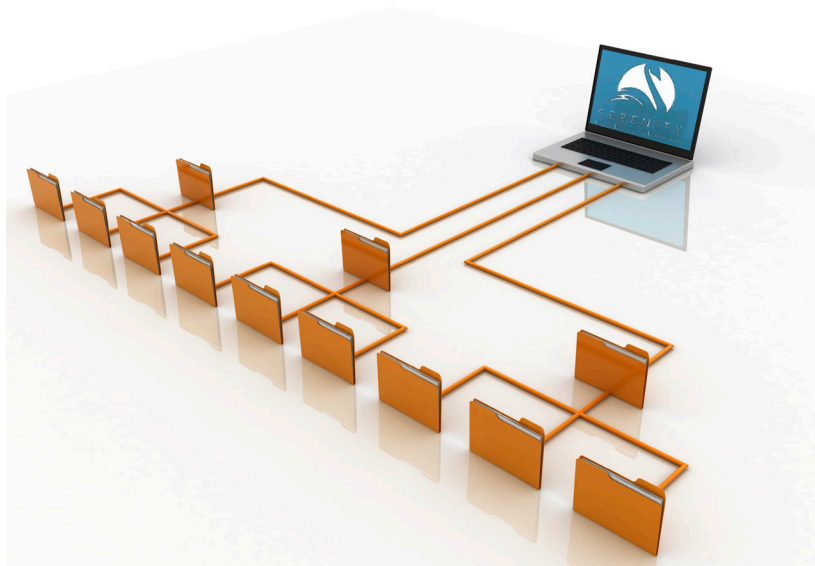

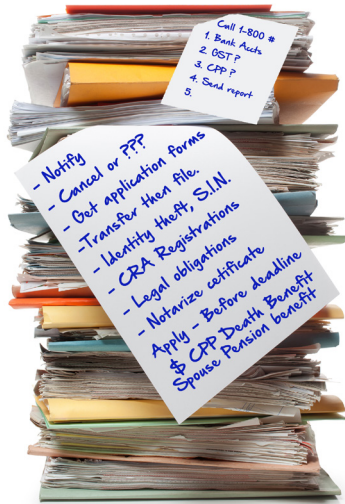

Your responsibilities are time sensitive, require precise accuracy, and specific documentation.

Our Final Document Service eliminates the long, frustrating and often costly process.

Unfortunately,
this process isn't as easy as it should be. You'll have to deal with the Government, Cancellations, Applications, Filing, Notifications, Reporting, Account Transfers and more.
